

Self-Direction Workshops

November 8, 2017

Have you considered self-directing your waiver services, but thought it might be too difficult? Have you wondered how self-direction would benefit your family? Do you know what self-direction really means? If you have any of these, or other questions about self-direction, you have the opportunity to get answers from someone who is directing their own waiver services at a workshop sponsored by the Louisiana Developmental Disabilities Council.

In these workshops, co-hosted by Families Helping Families, you will hear how one individual or family benefits from self-direction and manages the responsibilities. This opportunity will allow you to get any questions you have answered from a personal level and give you specifics of how one individual or family benefited after switching to self-directed waiver services.

Workshops for the months of November - April are listed below. Additional workshops will be announced as they are scheduled. These workshops are free, but you must RSVP to your regional Families Helping Families Center if you plan to attend.
