Additional Information

On December 11, 2024, the Legislative Auditor Report released an audit evaluating LDOE's oversight of the use of seclusion and restraint for students with disabilities, as well as an evaluation of Louisiana's laws and regulations related to abuse and neglect of students with disabilities. The report highlighted many concerns advocates have shared with LDOE and BESE over the years and clearly shows how the lack of monitoring and oversight of special education services has left students with disabilities vulnerable to abuse and neglect.

The Legislative Auditor was thorough in its review and evaluation. They:

- Interviewed and/or surveyed LDOE staff, Special Education Directors and Teachers, parents of students receiving special education services and education advocates;
- Conducted site visits of local school systems;
- Researched applicable state and federal laws and regulations and policies related to Special Education;
- Reviewed other Southern Regional Education Board states' processes, laws and regulations;
- Researched and reviewed U. S Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights data as it relates to restraint, seclusion, compliance reviews and guidance provided to state and local education agencies;
- Reviewed seclusion and restraint incident data from LDOE's Special Education Reporting (eSER) database; and
- Reviewed mandatory reporting policies available on local school systems' websites.

The audit cites multiple recommendations for LDOE, including:

- Development of a process to monitor school systems' use of seclusion and restraint;
- Working with the legislature to obtain resources needed to effectively monitor seclusion and restraint (i.e. funding and additional staff);
- Improving processes to verify accuracy of the number of seclusion and restraint incidents;
- Developing a review process to ensure school systems' seclusion and restraint policy align with state law;
- Ensuring all school systems' are aware of mandated reporter laws and abuse/neglect by non-caregivers should be reported to law enforcement;
- Disclosing why teachers' certifications were sanctioned on LDOE's website;
- Looking at maintaining a registry of school employees who are not certified by the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education (BESE), but have abused students; and
- Reviewing schools systems' camera policies to ensure state law is being followed.

This audit was discussed by BESE in January and referred to the Legislative and Governmental Affairs Committee for continued discussion and action.
